There is something uniquely inspiring about the summer season in education. While one school year has just come to a close, another is already beginning to take shape. We celebrate accomplishments, reflect on lessons learned, and at the very same time begin planning for the opportunities that lie ahead.

As a district, we are proud to be updating our three-year Priority Plan with measurable SMART goals that will help guide our work and hold us accountable to the commitments we make to students, staff, and our community. In the coming months, we will launch a public dashboard on our website, allowing our community to track progress on these goals in real time. Transparency, continuous improvement, and shared ownership remain at the heart of our work.

This issue of Eagle Eye captures both the celebration of where we have been and the excitement of where we are headed. Inside, you'll find Principal Roberts' message for the Class of 2026, highlights from our incredible TEDx event, and another outstanding musical production. You'll also meet several of our newest team members, join us in recognizing our Teachers and Staff Members of the Year, and learn more about Indiana's new cell phone legislation and what it means for schools.

Thank you for your continued partnership and support of Brown County Schools. Together, we are building on a strong foundation while creating world-class opportunities for every student. As we look ahead to a new school year, I remain inspired by the talent, dedication, and resilience of our students, staff, families, and community. Here's to celebrating the past year and embracing all that is yet to come.

Emily Callahan,
Superintendent Brown County Schools

At its June 1 meeting, the Brown County Schools Board of School Trustees approved three leadership appointments that will strengthen educational programming, school leadership, and technology services across the district.

Jody Weichman
Principal of BCMS

The Board approved Jody Weichman as the next principal of Brown County Middle School. Weichman brings more than a decade of educational leadership experience, having served as an assistant principal in both public and private school settings. Throughout her career, she has led initiatives focused on school safety, student support systems, instructional improvement, and positive school culture. A graduate-level leader with specialized certifications in dyslexia, autism, literacy, and school safety, Weichman has also served as a PLC coach, RTI coordinator, mentor teacher, and accreditation reviewer. Her commitment to fostering strong relationships and supporting student success will be a tremendous asset to the Brown County Middle School community.

Zachary Sprout
Director of Technology

The Board approved Zachary Sprout as the district's new Director of Technology. Sprout most recently served as Director of Technology for Southwestern Consolidated School District, where he led major infrastructure improvements, managed critical educational technology systems, and oversaw technology operations supporting students and staff. A graduate of Purdue University with a degree in Computer and Information Technology and a concentration in Information Security, Sprout brings expertise in network administration, cybersecurity, educational technology platforms, and strategic technology planning. His leadership will support Brown County Schools in its mission to serve our students, staff and school community.

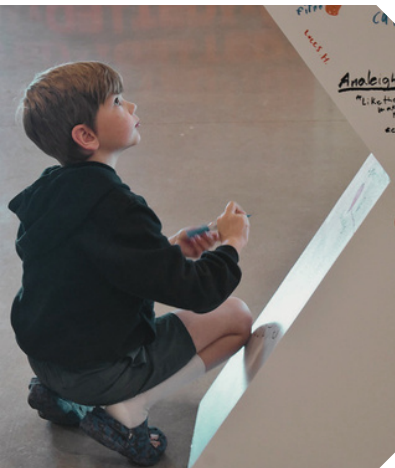

Abigail Magner
Principal of VBES

The Board approved Abigail Magner as the next principal of Van Buren Elementary School. Magner has served Brown County Schools for nearly ten years as an elementary educator and STEM leader. She currently serves as the STEM Leader at Sprunica Elementary School, where she successfully led the school to Indiana STEM Certification in 2024. In addition to supporting daily school operations and instructional improvement, Magner has played a key role in helping multiple Brown County elementary schools pursue STEM certification. Her passion for student-centered learning, strong relationships, and collaborative leadership will help continue Van Buren Elementary's tradition of excellence.

"We are excited to welcome Jody, Abby, and Zachary into these important leadership roles. Each brings unique talents, experiences, and a deep commitment to serving students. Together, they will help advance our mission of providing exceptional opportunities for every student while continuing to strengthen our schools and district for the future." -Superintendent Emily Callahan

Article written by student, Elayna Stanley

Students from Brown County High School were in a cooking class, learning to make the Spanish dish, paella, on their trip.

Brown County Students explore Spain and Portugal during Spring Break trip

trip of a LIFETIME

During spring break of the 2025-2026 school year at Brown County High School, a small group of students went on a once-in-a-lifetime trip to Portugal and Spain. After saving up money through fundraisers, donations, and hard work, the teens and chaperones boarded a flight to Lisbon at 9 p.m. on March 15. Over the course of the trip, students visited Lisbon and Cascais in Portugal, then went on to Madrid, Mérida, Toledo, and Barcelona in Spain. Some highlights included Roman ruins, the Prado Museum, an ancient sword factory, and multiple works of the Spanish architect Gaudí, including the famous Sagrada Familia. Though this trip lasted only nine days, its memories will last a lifetime, with students remarking on the deep impact it had on them personally. Junior Isabel Miller commented on the insight she gained from her time overseas. "This trip gave me new life experiences. I had never been outside the country, so it gave me a whole new perspective," Miller reflected. Sophomore Diesel McMillion seemed similarly affected by the trip. "It was a great opportunity, it meant that I was able to go and see parts of the world that I never thought I would have been able to before," McMillion said. Experiencing new countries and cultures no doubt affected these students, but the impact it had on their comprehension of a foreign language is also apparent. Junior Brooke Anderson spoke on the improvement she noticed in her Spanish proficiency. "It was definitely very intimidating to speak Spanish, but I was able to learn a lot by being put in situations where I needed to speak it," Anderson said. Senior Will Foster mentioned their initial apprehension towards the language barrier. "It was slightly intimidating, but it wasn't much of an issue, and it was a great learning experience," Foster recalled. Overall, the personal benefits of this trip were exponential, but the benefits of being in such a small group were also unmistakable. Many students found the trip brought them closer to their fellow travelers, creating an almost family-like atmosphere. Foster reflected on the camaraderie they experienced. "It was nice to be able to go there with other people, especially people my own age. Many of us got super close," Foster said. McMillion was able to develop friendships along the way. "I was a little nervous since I was the only guy on the trip, but I made a lot of friends and had a lot of fun," McMillion shared.

Though the goal of this trip was to share Spanish culture with a future generation, the simple aspect of travel in itself is what Brown County High School Spanish teacher Lauren Spiece wishes to instill in these teens. Spiece was a chaperone for her students as they traveled to Spain and Portugal, adopting the role of "mom of the group" and sharing her love of travel. Spiece believes that the students who accompanied her will look for more opportunities like this in the future. "I think the majority of these kids will want to travel more after this experience, it gives them that 'travel itch', whether it gets them thinking of studying abroad or just visiting more places," Spiece stated. When the students themselves were asked whether they planned to travel more in the future, 100 percent of them responded with an absolute yes. Looking forward, this trip has inspired these students to widen their horizons and form close bonds. By encouraging them to see more than what is right in front of them, it has become not only a pivotal moment in their lives, but a deciding factor in their futures.

"It was a great opportunity, it meant that I was able to go and see parts of the world that I never thought I would have been able to before." Diesel McMillion

SPRING MUSICAL

Once Upon A Mattress

The cast of Once Upon a Mattress took us on a magical quest to find Prince Dauntless a wife. Adapted from the classic fairytale "The Princess and the Pea" this musical took us on a family friendly journey with humor and catchy songs along the way. The whole kingdom was invested in finding the Prince a wife but his mother, Queen Aggravain, had to find the Princess to be suitable to her liking before the prince could marry. The Queen's impossible standards made for a lengthy memorable process, and the audience was along for the wild journey.

Pictured Above: Chloe Allen portraying Queen Aggravain and Maycee Riggle portraying Princess Winnifred, affectionally known as FRED, perform in the shadows as Theo King (the minstrel) sings for the opening Scene of the musical. In this scene the Queen and Princess act through what test the Princess will be required to pass in order to gain the Queen's approval to marry her son, Prince Dauntless.

Audiences joined the cast and crew of "Once Upon a Mattress" at Brown County High School in a hilarious take on a classic tale. They followed Princess Winnifred, Prince Dauntless, Sir Harry, and countless others as they tried to outwit the scheming Queen Aggravain. This production took place over 2 weekends with 6 opportunities to see the show, beginning April 10th and ending on April 19th, 2026. The "Pea test" in the show stands to prove a hypersensitivity to the single pea under the mattress is a genetic trait that shows "royal blood" has a delicate nature no matter how they look on the outside. Although the journey was a bit bumpy to find the Prince a wife, in the end Prince Dauntless finally rebels against his overbearing mother. When he tells her to "shut up," the curse on his father is broken. In the end, the mouse did beat the crow and the kingdom gained a princess. In this heartfelt tale, audiences learned that you should always stand up for what is right and that true nobility, depth, and character come from emotional and mental sensitivity rather than wealth or appearance.

"The friendships, memories, and teamwork we shared throughout this production made this musical more than just a performance for me."

"Once Upon A Mattress meant so much to me because it gave me the opportunity to grow into a student leadership role while doing something I truly love. Being able to work alongside people who are very close to me made the experience even more meaningful, because we supported each other both on and off the stage. The friendships, memories, and teamwork we shared throughout this production made this musical more than just a performance for me." – Senior Dereck Middleton

"It was a really fun show to work on! It's a show that doesn't take itself seriously. During a school year where there was a lot of transition and change for both the staff and students, it was nice to work on a show that was so easy going." – Music Director Jackie Stewart

John Elmore -- "As a director, I'm very impressed how all the students embraced this show, which is one of the best musicals ever written. It goes to show you what good writing does after time has passed, the story is the key for its longevity and how powerful a great piece like this continues to survive the passing of time..."

Eagle Park, A Masterpiece Nestled in the Hills

Eagle Park stands out as a true crown jewel of Nashville, Indiana, showcasing the unmatched natural beauty of the Brown County landscape. When Brown County Schools hosted the IHSAA Class 1A Girls Softball Semi-State tournament on June 6, 2026, athletes and fans from across Indiana stepped into a venue that perfectly combines high-stakes competitive sports with the serene aesthetic of the Hoosier hills.

- Scenic Backdrop: Towering hardwood trees and rolling hills cradle the facility, providing a panoramic screen of vibrant summer green that makes every play look picture perfect.
- Sunsets and Skyline: As day games transitioned to evening showdowns, the legendary Brown County skyline lit up with warm gold and amber hues, washing over the outfield fence.
- Pristine Grounds: Beyond the well-manicured diamond, the park's pristine green open spaces mirrored the famous, expansive wilderness of the nearby Brown County State Park.
- Welcoming Atmosphere: The rustic charm of Nashville, Indiana blended effortlessly with the modern athletics venue, making visiting schools feel like they were playing in a hidden valley oasis.

Eagle Park proved that a sports venue can be more than just dirt and fences, but it can be an extension of the beautiful wilderness that makes Indiana's hill country so iconic.

We are PROUD to call Eagle Park home for our school community at Brown County Schools!

LIFE LONG IMPACT

Honoring our staff members who have been with the school corporation for 10, 20, and 30 years!

Our youngest messengers shared some of the day's most powerful ideas, reminding us that the greatest breakthroughs are often the ones never drawn into the blueprint.

TEDx BROWN COUNTY YOUTH: BLUEPRINTS & BREAKTHROUGHS

On May 16, 2026, the stage at the Brown County Music Center once again became a platform for courage, creativity, and student voice as Brown County Schools hosted TEDx Brown County Youth: Blueprints & Breakthroughs. Now in its third year, TEDx Brown County Youth has grown into one of the district's signature experiences, providing students with an opportunity to share ideas worth spreading while developing skills in communication, research, storytelling, and leadership. What began as an ambitious idea has evolved into a movement that empowers students from every school across the district to find their voice and use it to make an impact.

The theme, Blueprints & Breakthroughs, challenged speakers to explore the plans, experiences, and moments that shape who we become—and the unexpected breakthroughs that occur along the way. Throughout the day, audiences were inspired by stories of resilience, innovation, friendship, service, personal growth, and community impact. Student speakers tackled a wide range of topics. They encouraged us to embrace mistakes, challenge fast fashion, build stronger friendships, prepare our communities for disasters, advocate for individuals with disabilities, celebrate originality, and recognize the power of kindness and service. Others shared lessons learned through chess, body image struggles, technical education pathways, and the importance of choosing growth over perfection.

Behind the scenes, TEDx Brown County Youth is truly a community effort. Students spent months researching, writing, revising, rehearsing, and refining their talks through the TED-Ed Student Talks process. Educators, mentors, families, volunteers, community partners, and sponsors worked together to support each speaker's journey from idea to stage. The day was also an opportunity to celebrate the continued growth of Brown County Schools' commitment to student voice. Through TED-Ed Student Talks, students across all grade levels are learning how to communicate ideas effectively, think critically, and engage in meaningful dialogue. These are skills that extend far beyond the stage and prepare students for success in college, careers, and life. As the curtains closed on Blueprints & Breakthroughs, one message remained clear: blueprints provide direction, but breakthroughs happen when people have the courage to step beyond the plan.

Confident Resilient Ready

"Good Morning graduates, families, staff, and community. Standing here today is incredibly special for me, because for many of you, this isn't where our story began. I've known so many of you since you were little, back in elementary school classrooms, on playgrounds, in gyms, on fields... when your backpacks were almost bigger than you and your dreams were just beginning to take shape. And now look at you. Confident. Resilient. Ready. It's hard to put into words the kind of pride I feel today. Not just because you made it to graduation, but because I've seen the journey it took to get here. I've seen your growth, your struggles, your laughter, and your determination. I've seen who you were... and who you've become. And I want you to hear this clearly, you have already made an impact. You matter. You have left your mark on this school in ways that will last far beyond today. But today isn't just about looking back, it's about stepping forward. Tomorrow, life will look a little different. And Monday morning, for the first time, you won't be walking through the halls of BCHS as students. That reality can feel exciting... and maybe a little overwhelming too. So I want to remind you of something important: Brown County High School doesn't stop being your home just because you graduate. This place...these people...this community...you will always belong here no matter where life takes you, no matter how far you go, you will always have a place to come back to. And I hope you do. Come back when you land your first job. Come back when you figure out what you're passionate about. Come back when life doesn't go as planned. And especially—come back when you have something to celebrate. Even the smallest victories matter. We want to celebrate with you. We want to cheer you on. We want to see the lives you're building and the difference you're making. And you will make a difference. Not because you have everything figured out—but because you've learned how to keep going even when things are hard. You've learned how to support each other. You've learned how to grow. That's what will carry you forward. As you leave today, I hope you carry three things with you: First—confidence in who you are. You are more capable than you realize. Second—gratitude for the people who helped you get here. None of us do this alone. And third—courage. The courage to take risks, to fail, to learn, and to keep moving forward anyway. Success isn't about having a perfect path—it's about continuing to walk it, even when it's uncertain. Class of 2026, I am so proud of you. Not just for what you've accomplished, but for who you are. And while today may feel like an ending, it's really just the beginning of everything that's ahead. So go chase your dreams. Go make your mark. Go build a life you're proud of. And don't forget where you came from. Because we will always be here cheering you on, welcoming you back, and reminding you just how proud we are. Congratulations, graduates." -
